As corporations look to avoid regulatory and criminal punishment for potential misdeeds, internal investigations have become a critical tool to preemptively uncover wrongdoing and to proactively offer cooperation when a governmental action commences.

The “standard of care” practitioners should adhere to when conducting internal investigations is ever-changing. For a look at the newest challenges in internal investigations, Phillips Nizer partner and co-head of the firm’s White Collar Criminal Defense practice group Ilene Jaroslaw will be moderating a panel at the upcoming American Bar Association’s 2019 Annual Meeting, featuring attorney-investigators experienced in business, private practice, and government.

Ms. Jaroslaw is a former Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Eastern District of New York, where she held numerous leadership positions, investigated hundreds of cases, tried dozens of cases to verdict, and argued 30 appeals in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

The event is titled “Internal Investigations OnThe Cutting Edge: Perspectives From The Front.”

When: Thursday, August 8, 2019, 4:00 -5:30 pm

Where: Nikko Hotel

Nikko Ballroom 1, 3rdFloor
222 Mason Street
San Francisco, California

The distinguished panel features:

- Jina Choi, the former Regional Director of the Securities & Exchange Commission’s San Francisco regional office and a partner at Morrison & Foerster;
- Lara Kollios, the Regulatory and Investigations Counsel at Google;
- Leslie Caldwell, a former U.S. Assistant Attorney General and a partner at Latham & Watkins; and
- Jessica Nall, the head of the White Collar Defense and Corporate Investigations practice at Farella Braun Martel.
